Murphy Will Succeed Bridges

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Maurice J. Murphy Jr. was appointed successor to Sen. Styles Bridges Thursday and indicated he would follow closely the conservatism and strong anti-Communist stands of the late dean of Senate Republicans.

"I'm sure that on major issues my thinking will be much along the same lines as the late senator," said Murphy, who at 34 will be the youngest member of the Senate.

Murphy was appointed to a one-year interim term by Gov. Wesley Powell, his friend and political mentor.

Delay Sunday
Sales Decision

BUTLER, Pa. (AP) — Judge Clyde S. Shumaker of Butler County delayed a decision Thursday on a request by a supermarket chain for a preliminary injunction restraining enforcement of a state law prohibiting Sunday food sales at stores employing more than 10 persons.

Judge Shumaker heard testimony Thursday but said he would not make a decision until about Saturday.

The injunction was sought by Atty. Lee C. McCandless in behalf of Friedman Supermarkets, who claim the law is unconstitutional.

Check Cuban
Threat On JFK

NEW YORK (AP) — A reported threat by a pro-Castro Cuban against the life of President Kennedy was under investigation Thursday. The chief executive was in New York earlier in the week for speaking engagements.

Because of the purported threat special police details were assigned to guard the President while he was here Tuesday and Wednesday. Weather forced a change in his arrival route, complicating the security arrangements.

A police source said local officers and Secret Service men have a photograph of the Cuban who allegedly made the threat to shoot the President. News of the purported threat was telephoned to authorities by an unidentified man with a Spanish accent who said he overheard it made by the pro-Castroite.

Two Indicted
In Fix Charge

NEW YORK (AP) — A state judge and an underworld racketeer were indicted Thursday on charges of vainly trying to fix a federal court criminal case for $5,000. Also accused in the plot was a former assistant United States attorney and two other men.

One of the key defendants, a physician accused of serving as go-between in the fix attempt, has been under around-the-clock FBI guard because of threats against his life.

The federal grand jury indictment of the five men—climax to a months-long probe personally directed by U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy—blew the lid off the biggest judicial scandal in New York since the late Federal Appeals Judge Martin T. Manton went to prison in 1940 for selling out his office.

Reapportionment
Blame Swapped

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Democratic and Republican state chairmen exchanged sharp charges Thursday on responsibility for the congressional reapportionment stalemate.

George I. Bloom, Republican state chairman, got in the first licks by blaming what he called Congressman William J. Green's unwillingness to give up a Philadelphia seat for failure of Democratic leaders to come up with a solution at a meeting here Wednesday.

Otis B. Morse, the Democratic state chairman, replied that Bloom is "the one who has created artificial ground rules for reapportionment by insisting that Philadelphia lose a seat."

Space Craft May
Rendezvous

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The space agency announced plans Thursday night to develop a two-man space craft capable of making a rendezvous with another vehicle while both are in orbit around the earth.

Cost of the program was estimated at about $500 million, including about a dozen of the space craft together with other rockets and equipment needed.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said that a rendezvous in orbit is one way of carrying out manned landings on the moon; another way would be a direct flight using the huge Nova booster rockets now under development. NASA said both methods will be explored.

U.S. Troops Pass Through
East Germany Unhindered

BERLIN (AP)—A new American battle group began rolling into West Berlin Thursday. Despite Communist threats, there was no interference with its motor march across Red-ruled East Germany.

The unit that arrived was Co. E, 1st Battle Group, 19th Infantry. Its 25 jeeps and trucks took 6 hours and 20 minutes to do the 110 miles from Helmstedt, in West Germany, to West Berlin. Nearly half the time was spent going through Soviet checkpoints at each end of the highway. This is about normal for the meticulous examination given to official papers by Soviet troops.

Capt. John B. Keeley, 32, company commander from West Bend, Wis., said he saw "quite a few" of East Germany's green-uniformed people's police on the four-lane highway. The Americans, as usual, ignored the East Germans—the United States does not recognize their Communist regime.

Wednesday, Otto Winzer of the East German Foreign Ministry asserted that neither his government nor the Soviet Union had ever guaranteed free access to West Berlin for "NATO troops."

The 19th is part of the forces in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization while it is in West Germany. But U.S. officials in Paris, NATO headquarters, said American troops automatically stop being NATO troops when they leave Helmstedt. Neither East Germany nor Berlin is NATO territory.

The group that started into Berlin Thursday will replace the 1st Battle Group, 18th Infantry. President Kennedy called the 1,500 men of that outfit to reinforce the 5,000-men American garrison in Berlin more than three months ago, while the Communists were building their wall through the city.

The 19th Infantry has history. It was under Japanese fire in the attack on Pearl Harbor, just 20 years ago. It was part of the 24th Division, the first American unit sent to Korea when that war started in 1950.

Notes of foreboding were sounded by the East German Communists. Their official party organ published a speech by Gen. Heinz Hoffmann, East German defense minister, calling for more attention to military production.

Peace-time industry should develop in such a way, he told the party Central Committee, that it can be converted to war use with the least possible change.

The Communists found an ominous explanation, too, for the escape of a locomotive and an eight-car commuter train with 25 East Germans aboard Tuesday night. The East German news agency ADN said it was all a plot by Mayor Willy Brandt's West Berlin city government.

Kennedy announced that along with his proposals to Congress in January for broader powers to promote foreign trade expansion he will also submit a program to aid communities, industries and workers that may be hurt by increased import competition.

"Such a program," he said, "will supplement and coordinate, not duplicate, what we are already doing or proposing to do for depressed areas, for small business, for investment incentives, and for the retraining and compensation of our unemployed workers."

"Whatever is required we will make certain that no community suffers unduly from trade. For, on the contrary, America must trade—or suffer."

Private Enterprise An Issue

U. S. And British Interests Differ In Congo

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

Support of the United Nations as a vehicle for bringing public opinion to bear on the world's disruptive forces is a prime policy of the United States and Great Britain.

The policy is integral in the approach of both nations to the conduct of the cold war.

One of the objectives in the cold war is to protect the whole private enterprise system.

In a fog of charges and countercharges, the shadowy figure of a segment of European private enterprise has emerged as the real combatant of the United Nations in the Congo.

The United Nations has decided that the most needful step in approaching a political settlement there is to rid the country of the European officers who lead the Katanga army, and the European political advisers who seem to be directing the tactics and putting up the money for Moise Tshombe's secessionist movement.

The object of the Europeans, of course, is to prevent any real Congolese control over their real business interests, and to prevent dispersal of their profits into taxes for development of the country as a whole.

British parliamentary debate over her reluctance to support the U.N. use of force has made clear both the roles of the Europeans in Katanga and of the European Katanga lobbyists in London and Brussels.

The United Nations debates included references to "Tshombe's" mercenaries, but the implications are that they are not Tshombe's mercenaries at all, and that Tshombe himself is not in control of the secessionist movement, regardless of what his motives may be.

The British government is in a tight spot on the matter, but reports of the differences between Britain and the United States may be overemphasized. The British oppose the use of force to effect political union of the Congo, but support that union by conciliatory means. The United States supports ouster of the European officers and political advisers from Katanga in the hope of establishment of an atmosphere making conciliation possible. That's the official hairsplitting difference.

Regardless of momentary hesitation yesterday over how to continue the American airlift in support of the U.N. force in Katanga, there was no sign among U.N. officials or among Americans there that any breakdown was being considered. Secretary-General U. Thant was going ahead with arrangements for reinforcements from other countries with full support of the United States.

And the people responsible were wishing that private enterprise, not only in Britain and Belgium but everywhere, would show more realization that it is directly involved in a greater war, one which demands some sacrifice now if it is to have any real hope for a future.

Congo Forces Ground Airlift

FIRING AT KATANGA TROOPS — Indian United Nations troop fire at Katanga troops from their mortar position near the airport road at Elisabethville during battle on Dec. 5. (AP Wirephoto by radio from Salisbury)

Expected Back In Air Today;
Area Ground Action Mounts

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP) — Katangans temporarily knocked out a United States airlift Thursday and a U.N. spokesman acknowledged the provincial troops seemed to be holding their positions against U.N. task forces in very confused fighting.

Bullets fired from the residence of Katanga President Moise Tshombe slightly damaged a U.S. Globemaster and led American authorities to halt their aerial transport of U.N. men and supplies to this secessionist capital.

(A U.N. spokesman in New York announced the American planes will resume operations Friday under escort of U.N. fighters. He said his announcement was based on official information relayed by U.N. authorities in Leopoldville. It was not brought out how the fighters could be expected to protect the transports from ground fire, though strafing attacks might help to clear the approaches.)

U.N. forces laid down a heavy mortar barrage late in the day on Katanga positions on the west side of the Elisabethville airport road. To correspondents in the post office area also, the tempo of the fighting appeared to be rising.

Shooting persisted in an area known as the Funnell, centered about a strategic underpass between the city and the suburbs. Wednesday it was claimed that Swedish troops were in command there. But during the evening a U.N. spokesman indicated that, although the Swedes may still control the underpass, they do not command the whole area.

Katanga Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba told a newsmen that he and Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo had toured battle positions and felt very confident. Both claimed the Katangans had gained ground in the skirmishing, though they did not say just where.

The U.N. jet air force, striking its own blow at enemy supplies, blasted a Katanga ammunition dump six miles outside Elisabethville and the resulting explosions shook the heart of the city.

American sources said small arms fire from Tshombe's residence as a big C124 Globemaster was coming in for a landing at Elisabethville airport hit the fuselage but caused no serious damage.

The Globemaster was one of six which began an airlift Wednesday of armored cars, anti-aircraft guns and their crews to the 3,000-man U.N. force in Elisabethville.

Tshombe's residence is being used by his ministers, but he was not there at the time of the shooting.

He was en route home from Paris, and reached Ndola, near the Katanga border in Northern Rhodesia, in late afternoon.

Tshombe, in angrily denouncing the U.N. air attacks on Kolwezi and near Jadotville Wednesday, charged American planes were "killing women and children."

The U.N. has announced that the attacks on an air base and a bridge were by Swedish and Indian jets and American planes were not involved.

At Ndola, Tshombe was quoted as saying, "As long as the United Nations continue to attack us we will fight back. The fight goes on."

Katangans launched a new attack on U.N. headquarters in the residential area.

An American Seventh-day Adventist mission compound and its 29 men, women and children were caught in a crossfire from mortars, rockets and small arms.

The mission is about 100 yards from headquarters, and Katangan soldiers rushed to positions in the flower beds.

The mission gardens and villas were torn like a battlefield in fighting Wednesday, and the bewildered missionaries covering in corridors and roofless rooms, telephoned the International Red Cross an appeal for a cease-fire so they could leave its premises.

One of the mission representatives, Chester L. Torrey of Washington, D.C., was hit on the head with a small piece of shell splinter.

U.S. Consul Lewis Hoffacker, ordered under house arrest by Katangan Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba because of the U.N. plane attacks on Kolwezi and Jadotville, was trying to arrange from his residence the evacuation of the missionaries. He said he felt safe enough himself.

Battle also was renewed in the area of a traffic circle on the road to the main airport where dispute over failure of the Katangans to remove a roadblock led to the outbreak of fighting Tuesday.

Other fighting was at a highway underpass linking downtown Elisabethville and the suburbs. A U.N. spokesman said the underpass technically was in U.N. hands, although this was disputed by the Katangans.

Russians Accuse Allies Of Sabotaging Katanga Action

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union Thursday charged Britain, France and Belgium with openly sabotaging the U.N. effort in Katanga and demanded that such action be stopped.

The accusation was made shortly after a U.N. spokesman announced that grounded U.S. Globemasters will resume transport of U.N. troops and supplies into embattled Elisabethville Friday.

A statement distributed by the Soviet U.N. delegation indicated the Russians might ask for a Security Council meeting to consider the charges.

The charges were denied immediately by a British delegation spokesman, who accused the Soviet Union of spreading malicious propaganda.

Referring to the council resolution of Nov. 21 empowering the United Nations to take new action in secessionist Katanga Province, the Soviet statement said: "The United Nations cannot remain passive in the face of open sabotage of the Security Council decision on the part of the colonial powers and their agents in Katanga."

The U.N. spokesman called a news conference to tell of the U.N. decision.

He said the planes will be provided with U.N. fighter escort to guard against attack. The big cargo-carrying planes were ordered grounded after one was hit by small arms fire while coming in for a landing at Elisabethville airport. It suffered no serious damage.

The spokesman said official word of the flight renewals had been received in Leopoldville and relayed to U.N. headquarters.

Renewal of the flights was seen here as reflecting U.S. determination to cooperate fully with the U.N. military action aimed at restoring order in Katanga.

It came as reliable sources reported that Acting Secretary-General U. Thant was receiving strong support for his plan to float a $200-million bond issue to keep the United Nations solvent while it struggled with the Congo crisis.

Nehru called Portugal's attitude "exasperating to the extreme."

"It is difficult to restrain our feelings," he said. "A situation has been created which progressively has become intolerable for us to submit to or accept."

Portuguese Accuse Nehru
Of Trumping Up Aggression

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru, famous for his nonviolent approach to the solution of other nations' disputes, finds himself accused of making war talk on two Asian fronts while his troops are fighting in the Congo as part of the U.N. force.

He told parliament Thursday the situation in Goa, the Portuguese enclave on India's West coast, can not be tolerated and there is "no solution except for the Portuguese to leave."

Earlier this week, in summarizing a Red China note complaining of Indian military activities along the Himalayan border to the north, Nehru said the Chinese hinted that "if our military activities are not stopped, they may have to take action."

Nehru said if an invasion came "we shall resist and repel it."

Red China's official Peiping People's Daily accused Nehru of being a liar and said he made hysterical, fabricated and fictitious charges of Red Chinese aggression. As Peiping put it, Nehru was repaying massive American economic aid.

At Lisbon, the Portuguese Foreign Ministry pictured Nehru as operating a war propaganda machine and "adopting the old Nazi tactics of trying to scare the would-be victim before he devours him."

Goa, a small territory 225 miles south of Bombay, is the center of 400-year-old Portuguese holdings. Two smaller Portuguese enclaves, Damao and Diu, are dependent on it. Since India became independent it has pressed Portugal to give them up.

Recently there have been charges of border raids from Goa, troop concentrations there, and unrest among the 650,000 Goans. India has protested a fatal shooting incident involving an Indian fisherman and a Portuguese ship.

Nehru called Portugal's attitude "exasperating to the extreme."

"It is difficult to restrain our feelings," he said. "A situation has been created which progressively has become intolerable for us to submit to or accept."

"I cannot say exactly what will happen; it depends upon developments."

$125,000 Settlement Made In Fatal Wayne County Crash

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — A $125,000 settlement Thursday ended a trial before federal Judge Michael E. Sheridan and a jury stemming from the deaths of three persons in a Wayne County auto crash Aug. 27, 1960.

The settlement—one of the largest ever recorded in federal court here—ended four companion suits seeking total damages of $325,000. They resulted from the deaths of Mrs. Louis Holdorf, 29, Jamestown, N. Y., her son, John, 4, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Helen Holdorf, 54, Franklin, N. Y., and serious injuries to a younger son, Harry.

The deaths occurred after Mrs. Louise Holdorf, driver of a station wagon, figured in a collision with a truck-tractor near Honesdale. Her mother-in-law and children were passengers in the station wagon.

The $125,000 judgment will be entered against Chemical Tank Lines, Downingtown, Pa. The jury returned a directed verdict finding Earl Shaffer, 33, Lake Ariel, driver of the truck, guilty of negligence. The largest portion of the settlement will go to the injured child, Harry Holdorf, who will receive $32,000. The verdict directs payment of $30,000 to John A. Holdorf, Franklin, for the death of his wife, Mrs. Helen Holdorf, with an additional $15,000 going to the estate of Mrs. Holdorf. The estate of John A. Holdorf, Jr., 4, will receive $9,500 and his father an additional $500. John A. Holdorf, also is to receive an additional $3,000 for the injuries to son, Harry, and for damage to the station wagon.

Good Morning!

He could not have been over 4, the little boy who stood in front of the lost and fund desk during the Christmas rush. There were traces of tears on his chubby face as he inquired, "Has any mother been turned in yet this morning?"

Area Unit's Heads Protest Airport Aid

OFFICERS of the Stroud Township Citizen's League have sent a letter to John R. Lesoine, chairman of Monroe County Commissioners, urging that no more taxpayers' money be spent by the Mt. Pocono Airport Authority.

The letter, signed by Douglas J. Keough, president; Francis E. McNamara, vice president; Warren E. Thorne, secretary, and Blanche Mackey, treasurer, said: "During the business session of the executive board of Stroud Township Citizen's League, Dec. 4, it was agreed, by unanimous vote, to voice our opposition to further appropriations of the taxpayers' money for use by the agency known as the Mt. Pocono Airport Authority.

"With the continued alarming rise in the tax structure of our area, the unemployment picture and the cost of living . . . the greatest in our history, together with the difficulty facing the working people in paying these taxes, we call upon your good sense and business judgment to use our tax dollars to the best advantage and where said expenditures will benefit the majority of our people.

"We stand ready and willing to discuss matters tax-wise with our county commissioners at any time.

"Thank you in return for giving the above your prompt attention."

Shoots 1st Deer In 18 Hunt Years

GEORGE Decker, 834 Clay Ave., Stroudsburg, has been hunting deer for 18 years, excluding three years of military service. However, over the span the luckless local resident hasn't seen a deer during his yearly trudge into the woods.

Yesterday the drought came to an end as George, hunting alone, bagged a seven-point buck.

The local man killed the deer on the Water Company property, just off Chipperfield Drive.

Monroe Red Cross Gets Reports

MRS. ALEXANDER Cole, Shawnee, resigned last night as a director of the Monroe County Chapter, American Red Cross, at a meeting of the board and executive director in the group's offices, Stroudsburg.

The board accepted the resignation with regret and lauded Mrs. Cole for her efforts to the Red Cross. Celeste Rossi presided at the session.

Minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer's report were approved.

In other business, Mrs. Clifford Heller reported that 16 cases were processed during the past month and that 23 telegrams and 21 long distance calls were made by the local chapter.

Social service committee reported food orders totaling $17 were given during the past month.

The local chapter also purchased clothing and shoes for victims of a recent fire. The total purchase was $40. Shoes for an other fire victim also were bought at a cost of $8.

During the past month there were 72 office interviews and a loan of $30 was granted.

Rossi reported on volunteer services for Mrs. Dreher who was unable to be present. Rossi said 125 people served for a total of 1,180 hours.

Mrs. Clyde Burke, chairman of the motor corps, reported that two trips were made by members of the corps.

Mrs. Edward Green was authorized to attend "A Principles of Social Welfare" training course in Allentown from Dec. 18 through 20. Mrs. Green was also welcomed as the new executive secretary. She replaced Mrs. Charles Mottis who resigned recently.

It was announced that contributions for 1961 fund drive were being accepted.

Dr. George Ockershausen reported on the first aid class, under the direction and instruction of Miss Helen Brown, to members of Monroe County Civil Defense.

Joseph DeRenzi reported the blood drive held in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church was a success. He said 100 pints were collected.

Daniel L. Suttell, Red Cross field representative, presented suggestions to be considered for the 1962 fund drive, and first aid and blood program.

Others present were Mrs. Adan Bohner, Mrs. Clifford Heller, Mrs. Thomas Shoemith, Mrs. William Webb, Mrs. Edward Green, William Hahn, Russell Harmon, Mrs. Sidney Cohen, Mrs. Jacob Kintz, William Wells, and Miss Donna Sandt.

The candidates filing statements of more than $150 were John R. Nauman, Warren Loney, Joseph Small, Myrtle Angle, John Kitchen, Hal H. Harris, John C. F. Foelker, Thomas Kistler, Jack Wyckoff, Paul Lloyd, John Detrick.

Nauman received $25 and his expenses were $151.60; Loney didn't receive anything, and his expenses were $269.14; Miss Angle, with no donors, listed her expenses at $252.96.

Joseph Small received $510 and his expenses were $523.13; Kitchen didn't receive any financial aid and his expenses were $208.35; Harris had no donors and had expenses of $203.09; Foelker's expenses for his campaign for coroner, were $210.70 and he received nothing.

Thomas Kistler's statement showed $65 received and expenses $190; Lloyd's statement showed no receipts and $355.37 in expenses; Wyckoff, with no donors, had expenses of $270.44; Detrick received nothing and his expenses were $208.75.

Those filing statements of less than $150 were Angela Dellaria, Allen McAllister, Raymond Jones, Beverly Schaller, Harry Evans, William Schnaitman, Litcher Caruthers, Harold Larison, Theodore Price, Lillian Kitchen, Claude Arnold, Edith Young, Haiden Murphy, John Baymor.

Also John Hauser Oden Libbey, Robert Hellmann, William Walker, Edwin Caprioli, Richard Keiper, Clifford Bush, Howard Altemus, and John C. F. Foelker (justice of the peace).

Education Secretaries Meet Monday

MONROE County Education Secretaries Association will hold the first of four workshops Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Pocono Mountain Joint High School in Swiftwater.

Dr. James W. Skelton will conduct the first workshop. This period will be devoted to "Grammar, Composition and Letter Writing".

Ceremonies took place at a joint court of honor with Stroudsburg's Troop 86, William Sheeley, of Troop 86, presided.

Troop 91 also introduced its new Scoutmasters — Joseph Esoda, Scranton, and Clarence Fair, Tobyhanna.

The court was attended by Troop 91 Chairman Martin B. Mortensen,

$250 Stolen From Room In Eastburg

THEFT of a purse containing $250 from the room of Mrs. Ethel Cowling, 299 S. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, has been reported to borough police.

Mrs. Cowling, a housekeeper, told police thieves apparently entered through a basement window of the residence, used matches to light their way to a door leading to the upstairs and ransacked the house.

The purse was found later, discarded near Brodheads Creek, but there was no money in it.

GALLERY OWNER Shows Sculpture To Visitor — Mrs. Agnes Dyer, left, artist-owner of The Ridge, an art gallery located in Eagle Valley off Brushey Mt. Rd., explains to Miss Rosamund Taylor of Tannersville, the intricacies involved in several pieces of welded sculpture created by George B. Johnson, a faculty member at ESSC. His sculpture is part of the winter show now on at The Ridge.

Small Show Of Big Work On Display At 'The Ridge'

FOUR painters, one sculptor and one photographer are exhibiting in the current winter show at The Ridge. Mrs. Agnes Dyer's rustic gallery in Eagle Valley. "For this exhibit I wanted a smaller group of larger works," Mrs. Dyer comments, adding, "And that's what I've gotten."

All the works are new and some of them, two huge oils by Mrs. Dyer and a 70-inch calligraphic form of welded brass and steel by George B. Johnson, have just been returned from their "debut" at a juried show in Binghamton, N. Y.

Johnson, who is an assistant professor of art at the East Stroudsburg State College, has, according to Mrs. Dyer, a difficult time finding a place to work at his own art. "Mr. Johnson is doing creative experimenting in sculpture, using a welder's torch, among other unusual tools, so he can't have an ordinary studio like the rest of us."

Elonora Hauser, daughter of Mrs. Marietta Hauser, Shawnee-On-The-Delaware, has several oils in the show, including a strikingly vivid one called, "Sunrise Over Brooklyn."

Miss Hauser is presently studying for her M. A. degree in art at Hunter College, New York City.

Nancy Hebard, (Mrs. Morgan Hebard Jr.) Shawnee-On-The-Delaware, is exhibiting three abstracts, all of a bold size and executed in muted color.

Sterling Stramer is represented by a recent oil done in a Japanese mood, entitled, "Honeysuckle Vine On A Doorstep."

The photographer in the group is Jess Weiss who works at the Tobyhanna Depot. He has a group of portraits, including two studies of Ann Lomax, folk singer Alap Lomax's teenage daughter.

The Ridge Gallery is an adjunct to the Dyer home. It was designed by the late Mr. Dyer as a copy of the studio-gallery Mrs. Dyer lived in while she was studying in the art colony at Woodstock, N. Y.

The current show at The Ridge will continue through Dec. 10. It is open to the public.

DR. R. A. BARNARD conducted a memorial service for Robert Bowlby and Fred Bartholomew at Wednesday's meeting of the MORA Club at the YMCA. Bartholomew was a charter member of the group.

The birthdays of Past President James S. Bunnell, Vice President Theodore E. Kirch and Harry Halterman were observed.

William B. Marvin, Pitman, N.J., retired educator, presented a talk and slides on his trip to Europe. He is a brother of Percy and Barrett Marvin of East Stroudsburg. Group singing was led by Al Sommer.

It was announced the club's Christmas party will be held next Wednesday in conjunction with the Leisure Hour Club. Rev. Lewis Johnson, assistant pastor of East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, will be the speaker.

Miss Hackenberg, Pleasant Valley guidance director, will discuss the high school function in helping to place students in employment or college.

Following the discussions the panel will accept questions from the audience.

The Dollarette

The Government may be forced to devalue the dollar in order to stop the outflow of our gold to foreign countries, a Columbia University economics expert told the joint Senate-House Economic subcommittee this week.

Even though most of us have been familiar with the idea of the 48-cent dollar for some time, this still came as a shock. Those who have traveled in Europe are aware that there is a growing contrast between what the dollar will buy at home, and what it will buy abroad outside the expensive tourist centers. Dollars seem to command an unreasonably large amount of buying power when changed into foreign money.

For many years, we have had what is called a "managed currency" with the Government doing the managing. This is a sound way to operate, providing the Government acts always to preserve the integrity of the money as well as the official rate of exchange. But American authorities have maintained a high official value for the dollar while letting its real value deteriorate.

Foreigners have become increasingly aware of the difference, and too often have therefore insisted on having debts settled in gold rather than in dollars. The overvaluation of the dollar in relation to the money of other nations also makes it difficult for American firms to underbid foreign firms on orders.

This is one of the reasons that American companies have been setting up foreign subsidiaries — to be able to compete for foreign business that cannot be obtained for their American plants.

Devaluation of the dollar would be a serious step. While it would make it easier for American goods to compete abroad, it would disrupt the patterns of international trade. And it might not stop the gold outflow, because everyone knows a nation that devalues once often resorts to devaluation again.

Official devaluation of the dollar would be humiliating and dangerous. But it cannot be avoided forever if the Government continues inflationary policies of past years.

Sometimes Thankless Jobs

When school boards organized this week in communities across Pennsylvania, some new members were seated and some who have been serving through the years laid aside their duties and responsibilities.

To all these, and to those who continue in office, the communities they serve owe a hearty and sincere word of appreciation. This, other than the satisfaction that comes from service, is the only compensation they receive.

There is honor, of course, in being elected to any public office. Only those who have served on school boards, however, know the long hours of work and the countless headaches that go with the job.

For most of these unpaid public servants the job means more than attending a meeting or two a month. It means committee meetings almost every week, visits to schools, hours of studying reports and budgets and statutes, dozens of telephone calls and visits from teachers, parents and other taxpayers. Frequently it means undeserved abuse.

In the offices for which they volunteer, school directors are the buffer between the public and the professionals in education who sometimes reach for the moon. Were it not for them, costs in many school districts would be considerably higher. Their job is to make certain that every tax dollar makes it possible to do a better job in education. Most of them dedicate themselves to this task.

Killing Schools

Governors find themselves in financial difficulties because of the continued faulty state financing since the glorious days of the Depression when the New Deal evolved the Keynesian doctrine that if private enterprise or private individuals cannot provide for themselves, the state must dip into the till and grab as it is called welfare.

Now, in the 1960's, they find that money is not so available. Taxes have become too high and the state governments cannot compete with the Federal administration in depriving the citizen of his earnings. So educational institutions are being deprived of revenue.

One of the worst examples of faulty educational revenue is the State of Michigan which is very short of funds. The State of Montana is considering closing its famous School of Mines.

One of the major problems that faces this country is that too many students are permitted to fill their schedules with "easy" courses which make it possible for them to get a degree without doing much work.

One meets a student who majored in English and speaks and writes the language like an alien, or who has majored in history and knows about as much history as used to be acceptable for an eighth grader. That is not education; it is using time.

The student is intellectually impoverished and has little to show for four years of time spent in Ivy Halls.

Our national problem, however, is that we need more engineers, more physicians, more mining engineers, more scientists if we are to hold our own in a world when science is essential to the rebuilding of the civilization which has been damaged by war and revolution.

The closing of a school of mines can only be justified by a lack of competent students, what seems to be essential is that students be encouraged to take the tough courses, particularly those heavy with mathematics, which are so essential for knowledge of the new sciences and for the safeguarding of this country.

The Montana School of Mines has special value because it lies close to some of the most important mining industries in the country. Technical schools need to be established where the students can find their work.

For instance, it would not make much sense to establish an agriculture school in New York City, but Ames, Iowa, is an excellent place for just such a school. Similarly, medical schools situated where there are no hospitals do not serve the students well, but big cities like Boston, New York and Chicago attract medical students because it is practical to associate a medical school with a big hospital.

A School of Mines in Montana, at Butte, which is the center of the copper industry, makes sense. To close down such a school because the state may be short of money is stupid. The state ought to find the money.

In the old days, the rich contributed such money out of the profits of their business. Today, income taxes and the limitation upon charitable contributions make it very difficult even for the rich to contribute heavily to charities or to education.

Nevertheless, there are men who assume the responsibility to share their earnings with beneficial institutions. They refuse to permit a brutal system of taxation to lower the moral and cultural standards of the nation.

Similarly, states must cut down on non-essential expenditures, on political expenditures and keep their educational institutions up to scratch. When the nation was young and weak and money was scarce, we developed one of the finest educational systems in the world. We somehow found the men and women who were willing to keep schools going.

What has happened to us in the middle of the Twentieth Century that we are ready to close down important technical schools in the face of Russian competition?

The picture is not quite as discouraging as it seems because in the larger cities, in the humanistic studies, much is being done. But in engineering fields, we are falling behind because we somehow have permitted ourselves to believe that mere attendance at college is sufficient.

What is needed is a toughening of requirements for matriculation and for graduation. If a college produces a hundred students and one of them is an Einstein, it has done more than producing 100 students who amount to nothing.

The Pennsylvania Story

New Hospital In DuBois Area

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Reporter's Notebook: True Yule Spirit—The folks in Du Bois in Clearfield County may not quite realize it but they're certainly living up to "ye old yule spirit" of "giving unto others while giving unto themselves" . . . For that matter so are most other Pennsylvanians—but the DuBois incident proves a specific case in point.

The other day the DuBois Courier-Express in a front page story told of finalization of plans for ground breaking exercises for a new $300,000 addition to the city's Maple Avenue Hospital . . . The project will include more patient rooms and operating rooms . . . For Maple Avenue Hospital and residents of the DuBois area it meant the culmination of hard work and fund drives to raise the needed money.

But alas, the good folk of the DuBois area—and Pennsylvanians too throughout most other areas of the state—may not realize it but they're also going to help pay for a new "laundry building and boiler plant" for another hospital less than a hundred miles to the northeast in Bloomsburg in Tioga County—according to bids received the other day by the State—to the tune of $404,750! . . . And—the folks at Bloomsburg didn't even have to raise a finger (or a buck) for the new "laundry Building" and "boiler plant" they're going to get!

In fact they didn't even ask for it . . . Reason: The Bloomsburg hospital is one of ten state-owned and operated hospitals ("general" hospitals just like the DuBois Maple Avenue Hospital and some 182 other community-supported local hospitals throughout the state—except that taxpayers as a whole pick up the tab) that long ago outlived their original purpose of providing hospital care and treatment for the then huge core of economically-depressed miners . . . Taxpayers continue to support these ten state-owned hospitals—as well as their own local hospitals—because administration after administration (including the present Lawrence Administration) and legislature after legislature are politically afraid to do anything about it!

The Bootstraps Route—One of the interesting sidelights of Pennsylvania's new Secretary of Commerce Thomas J. Monaghan—defeated Democratic candidate for mayor of Lancaster—can be found in his early background.

For those who may remember —the year 1931 was a decidedly tough depression year . . . That was the year Monaghan finished high school in Mahanoy City—a super-depressed area in the depression era . . . College was out of the economic question . . . He picked up any work he could —drove a bread truck, sold vacuum cleaners, sold music and instrument lessons, or just about what everyone was doing in those "gay" days of the 1930's.

That's his early background . . . Later he became a member of the school board in Mahanoy City, but perhaps more striking than anything else in view of his recent appointment as Pennsylvania's new Secretary of Commerce—back in those days he was one of the leaders in setting up an industrial development program in the Mahanoy City area (before other areas in the state were even thinking about it), which today is the keystone of Pennsylvania's pull-'em-in-new-industry program (PIDA) administered by the Department of Commerce he now heads!

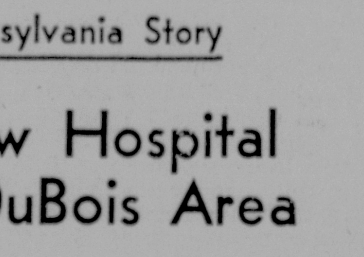

Best "Seller" List—You don't have to "buy" it in actuality—it's free for the asking—and a 32-page booklet just issued by the State Department of Internal Affairs seemingly would be well worth "asking for" on the part of local government officials throughout the state.

"Municipal Bonds: Tax Exempt Status?" is the title of the publication prepared by Dr. Sidney Wise, associate professor of Government at Franklin and Marshall College and published by the department . . . Purpose of the publication, according to Internal Affairs Secretary Genevieve Blatt is "to assist government officials assess and more fully appreciate the many difficult aspects of a very important and thorny problem."

The study for example, examines the issue of continuing the federal tax exemption of income from state and local government bonds, an exemption that has been considered a "loophole" in the present federal income tax laws . . . Anyone can have a copy—just write the Department of Internal Affairs here in Harrisburg and ask for it.

If syndicated columnists have their way, Fred Waring will be moving to Bermuda and Palm Springs, Calif. in the not too distant future.

In fact, rumors have been flying locally that the America's Mr. Music will sell his Shawnee Country Club and Inn interests. Even the price tag of one million dollars has been tossed about by the natives and so-called journalists in the know.

Hedda Hopper, a writer more known for her hats, says its Bermuda where Fred will put his fedora. Another society scribbler notes that Palm Springs will be the site from which Waring will send forth the sweetest music this side of "Down Under."

What do we know? Nothing. Like the good Army man we weren't we went through channels. This strategic maneuver got us:

"I know nothing about it."

"First I heard of it."

All of our probing got us right back to the factual statement that Fred Waring, who is now on tour, is still a resident of Shawnee and still owns Shawnee Inn and Country Club.

One of the big business magazines developed a series of seven collection letters that were regarded as more effective than the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. Naturally, the magazine's owners were reluctant to let competitors have copies of these proven accelerators of delinquent accounts. When one newspaper columnist asked for a set of the letters, he was turned down angrily.

The columnist thereupon resorted to a clever stratagem. He took out an inexpensive ad in the classified pages of the business magazine, then ignored bill after bill for the same. One by one he received all seven of the magazine's "foolproof" collection letters. When he had the complete set, he wrote his column about the letters, as planned.

The Allen-Scott Report

Moscow-Peiping Split Is Really Rhetorical

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — The Moscow-Peiping feud the whole world has been following so intently is far more apparent than real.

The two great Communist powers do have differences. And in a typically circuitous manner, they are sniping at each other. But these rhetorical fusillades are over tactics and methods, and not basic objectives.

Their underlying aim is the communization and domination of the world, and on that the Sino-Soviet axis is as unshakably united as ever.

These are the significant findings of a detailed study by the famed Library of Congress of the apparent rift between the Soviet and Red China. After an exhaustive inquiry, the Library, one of the largest and most noted in the world, concluded:

"The Moscow-Peiping axis continue to mobilize manpower, brain power and immense resources to conquer the globe and to bury us and other free peoples."

Two factors, according to the Library of Congress, are at the bottom of the seeming split between Russia and Red China, as follows:

(1) A power struggle between Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung for leadership of the Communist world. Because of superior Soviet power, technological, scientific and industrial strength, Khrushchev will, in all likelihood, remain as top Red dog in the foreseeable future.

(2) The bone of contention between these top Communist rulers involves tactics and not ultimate objectives—which still aim toward world conquest.

The study stresses the extent to which personalities are playing a decisive role in this power struggle. Although Communist ideology disdains this factor, the Library contends it is crucial: "Khrushchev wants to single-handedly wield power over the entire Communist bloc; to have supreme command of Communist forces; to be free to call the signals; to determine when and where to have revolutions; when and where to withdraw; when and how to embark on a drive for peace or to go to war.

"But Mao Tse-tung is insisting on an equal voice in deciding Red policy. He hasn't got that yet, but he's stubbornly demanding it and only time will tell the outcome of this fateful party power struggle."

Dangerous Booby-Traps—The Library of Congress study warns particularly against three wide-held misconceptions, as follows:

"That Khrushchev and Mao are drifting toward irreconcilable hostility and violent clashing; that Red China is ready and anxious to embark on a 'holy Communist war against imperialists' regardless of cost, nuclear weapons and other catastrophic risks involved; and that Khrushchev is so devoted to peaceful co-existence as to have altogether forewarned the use of force against the non-Communist world."

There is no sound basis for these theories, the study contends. On the contrary, it holds: "The Moscow-Peiping rift does exist, but it offers no immediate hope of violent clashes or a break-up of the Communist empire. Rather, the Reds, while differing in tactics and theories, can be expected to continue to cooperate in pressing forward on all fronts to further their underlying aim of world domination."

"There is little room for doubt that on basic world issues the leaders of the two dominant Communist powers see eye-to-eye. Quite obviously they agree on the following: That the Communist revolution is sweeping forward relentlessly, 'destined by history' to engulf the whole world; and that capitalism is receding, 'weakened by its own contradictions,' and its failure to suppress the discontent and revolutionary surge of the underprivileged masses.

"On the basis of their common philosophy, therefore, the two Red partners are equally anxious to accelerate the triumph of their cause. Inevitably, too, each partner wants to earn for himself the reputation of being the superior strategist in this 'holy war against imperialism' and, hence, more qualified for the role of ruler of the entire Communist camp."

While Red China's resources are limited as compared to Russia's, it is aggressively pursuing imperialist aims throughout the world.

"But there is an important difference between the tactics of Peiping and Moscow," the Library study points out. "Khrushchev's world policy is more complex and flexible. He realizes that world war with nuclear weapons has become extremely undesirable. The problem, as Khrushchev sees it, is to devise means for advancing the perimeter of Communist power and domination by indirect means."

"China, by contrast, is engaged in a worldwide campaign to encourage disaffection and uprisings, and to instigate dissidents to take to the field of battle on the understanding they will get help from Communists because that is the duty of Communists everywhere. Graphic cases in point are Algeria, Cuba, Laos, South Vietnam."

Above all, the report bluntly advises, the free world must beware of being lulled by the apparent disunity between Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung.

"The clear open signs of disagreement between the two contenders for domination of world Communist forces," concludes the study, "ought not to divert our attention from the high degree of deadly discipline with which the Communist parties all too often act against sovereign, independent nations that have not taken the precaution of acting in unison with other freedom-loving nations in their common defense for survival."

Momentous Challenge—A highly significant anti-Communist development is taking place in Mexico.

Former President Miguel Aleman is bluntly challenging Red political and other elements which have long exercised considerable influence there. Since the rise of Fidel Castro, these Communist forces have been the puddy Cuban dictator's foremost champions.

Prominent among them is former President Cardenas, an outspoken leftist.

Aleman's forceful blasts at the Reds are a direct challenge to Cardenas. Also significant, it is open secret in Mexico that Aleman's frank talking has the blessing of President Adolfo Mateos.

On the surface, Mateos is maintaining correct diplomatic relations with Havana. But privately, he makes no bones of his detestation of Castro and his increasingly gory dictatorial rule. Aleman's sharp criticism of Castroism not only has the approval of Mateos, but is enthusiastically supported by business, labor and cultural leaders.

Aleman's latest militant speech, to a graduating class in Mexico City, was widely acclaimed. In this talk he warned:

"We must guard against the irresponsible ones, who with ideas contrary to our interests and Mexican integrity, spread divisive concepts that would destroy our unity and our sovereignty as a nation . . . We cannot credit the totalitarian systems with any notable achievements in culture, technical knowledge or civilization. It is the democratic nations which have achieved high standards of living without detriment to their dignity, their rights and their liberty."

Coming And Going—President Kennedy, in addition to his forthcoming trip to Venezuela and Colombia, has in mind two other Latin American goodwill tours. One will be to Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama and possibly other Central American countries; the other to Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Peru, probably next summer before the congressional campaign . . . The British Ambassador in Washington has notified the State Department that his country will vote for admission of Red China to the UN when that issue comes up.

ESSC's 'Hasty Heart' Seen Funny, Fast-Paced, Warm

By ALICE HASTINGS

LAST NIGHT, eight men and one woman student at the East Stroudsburg State College opened in John Patrick's comedy-drama, "The Hasty Heart." Funny, fast-paced and often touching "The Hasty Heart" takes place in a convalescent ward in a British field hospital somewhere in Burma.

A handsome, dour and disagreeable member of Scotland's fighting Cameron regiment comes into the ward to recuperate, unconscious of the true facts of his condition. How the other men—an assorted lot of fast-talking, easy-going Englishmen, American, Australian, New Zealander and "heathen"—react to him, and to their knowledge of his fate, provides the drama of the play.

The Scotsman, Lachlen, is played to the hilt, or perhaps 'kilt' by Ed Curvey, a junior from Mahoney City. His accent is excellent and his original "dourness" splendid. The gradual change in his character, in fact in his appearance, is accomplished with finesse by Curvey.

Freshmen Do Well

His American opposite, "Yank" is played by a freshman from Brooklyn, Fred Bailey, who does an equally good job with a Southern accent. (In fact, all the accents in the play, the Englishman, and the "down-under" of Digger the Australian, are authentic and natural-sounding.)

Bailey, or "Yank," alternates from a mood of frenetic joy to hysterical anger with equal skill. He has several scenes which, without his admirable control and sense of timing, could easily have gone over into the sentimental.

Zandee Wicks, from East Stroudsburg, the other freshman in the play, does well in the smaller role. He attains just the right amount of matter-of-factness that a field hospital orderly should. Bailey and Wicks will go far on the drama scene at ESSC.

Tommy the Englishman, is played by John Fallan, a junior from Mahoney City. Fallan is a real comedian who has appeared in all the plays given during his time at college. Crisp in speech, he manages to always get that "added something" into a line that consistently brings down the house. One of the funniest spots in the play is where he reads a letter from his old woman, telling how he is being made a "bloody hero by having a pudding named after him."

Jim Cebula, a junior from Dupont, plays Digger, the Australian who is waiting to hear if he has a son or daughter. He explodes into bursts of humor and anger with gusto, and his tall, lean figure is in comical contrast with his neighbor Tommy's round, fat one.

Carl Sloat, a junior from Montrose, plays the surgeon, a colonel in the army. He has played the colonel in previous plays at the college, and if this is type casting it seems a fine idea for he projects his role with authority and full, juicy voice.

Bob Buzard, a senior from Levittown and Jim Barniak, a sophomore from Clark Summit, do competent jobs as soldier and as savage.

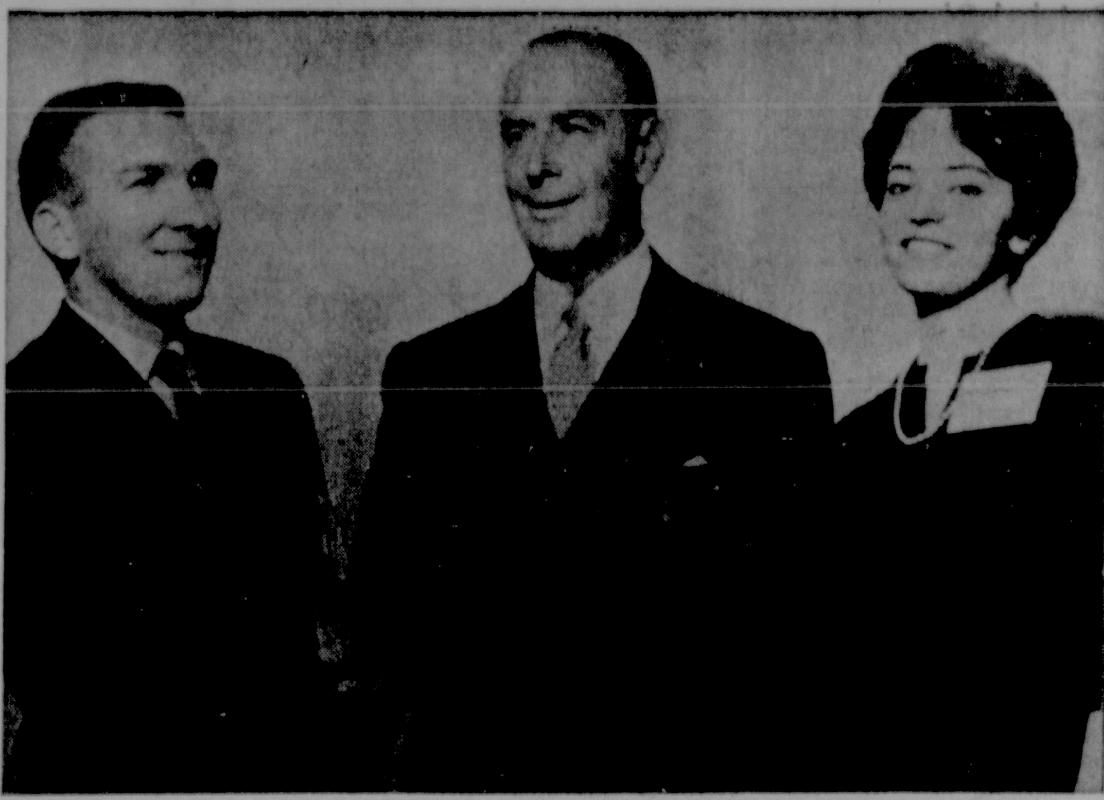

A "Dream" Nurse

Sister Margaret, the British nurse, is portrayed by Nuala Downey, the special student from New Zealand. She is a pretty nurse who undoubtedly would be the dream nurse of any ward full of men. In her scenes with Lachlen she offers tenderness without gushiness and with the other men she manages an imperturbable air of goodhumored efficiency.

Joseph F. Brennan, of the speech department directed "The Hasty Heart." He was assisted by Lucille Gudz, a junior from Moscow. The play will be given tonight and tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium. The public is welcome.

Treasure Search

MOULMEIN, Burma (AP)—Two Japanese mining engineers have been engaged to help in a new search for a cache of gold and precious stones which Japanese troops are believed to have hidden in a hill near here during World War II.

Federal Employment Tax Hike Rates Effective Jan. 1

U. S. INTERNAL Revenue Service yesterday reminded employers of the following increases in the rates of Federal employment taxes relating to retirement, disability, and unemployment which become effective January 1, 1962.

The employer tax under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act will each increase from 3 per cent to 3½ per cent, from wages paid after December 31, 1961, regardless of when the wages are earned.

The employer tax under the Federal Unemployment Tax Act will increase from 3.1 per cent to 3.5 per cent. This is the Federal unemployment tax which is due for any calendar year from any employer who has 4 or more employees on at least 1 day of each 20 calendar weeks in the year. The increase applies to wages paid after December 31, 1961, regardless of when the wages are earned.

The social security tax due from self-employed individuals on their income from self-employment will increase from 4.5 per cent to 4.7 per cent for taxable years beginning December 31, 1961.

The taxes under the Railroad Retirement Tax Act also will be increased on compensation paid for services rendered after December 31, 1961. The employer tax and employee tax will each increase from 6½ per cent to 7½ per cent. The employee representative tax will increase from 13½ per cent to 14½ per cent.

The rate at which income tax is required to be withheld from wages is not changed.

When Confederate soldiers sang their ironic song about "goober peas," they were singing about peanuts.

HOTTEST NOVEMBER IN FORD HISTORY!

And here's what started the heat wave!

Last month more Americans bought Fords than in any November in history. The blazing success of the long Ford line was end-to-end, all across the country and up and down it, too. ■ Everywhere the people flocked into their Ford Dealers and bought smart new Falcons, and the new Falcon Squire, the glittering swift Galaxies, the famous Ford Station Wagons and the hot Thunderbirds. And they poured in to see and buy up the brand-new Fairlanes just introduced. ■ There are four magic reasons why behind the smashing success of the long Ford line for 1962. First of all is utterly modern styling, the fresh crisp lines that are now being so widely copied by other car-makers, the smart look that dominates the industry. Second is absolute power in eleven kinds of engines, giving you anything you could want in engine options. Third is total economy—every Ford model is priced directly at your pocketbook, and every Ford, large, medium or small, gives you gasoline mileage outstanding in its class. Fourth is the service-saving concept—every Ford car is built to cut down maintenance worries and problems, with service-saving features other cars may have some day. ■ Ford leadership from Falcons to Thunderbirds is founded on trend-setting innovations . . . The hot ideas come from Ford. And at the heart of Ford success is an almost revolutionary new concept of quality . . . most serious and direct concern with the actual part-by-part quality. For the hot trends in the hot cars, for a new experience in quality, and for the best buys on the American Road, see your Ford Dealer.

PRODUCTS OF MOTOR COMPANY

NOW THERE ARE FOUR CLASSES OF CARS ...AND ONLY FORD HAS ALL FOUR!

COMPACT CLASS:

FORD FALCON

This class includes cars with 106- to 114-inch wheelbase. Most popular by far (a million happy owners!) is the Ford Falcon. Falcon is America's lowest-priced* 6-passenger car, set a 25-year record for Sixes or Eights in last spring's Mobilgas Economy Run, gives you a choice of 13 models, including the Futura and new Falcon Squire wagon.

FAIRLANE CLASS:

FORD FAIRLANE

The Ford Fairlane is the first member of a new class which combines the advantages of both compacts and big cars . . . you get big car room, ride and performance . . . compact savings and maneuverability. Priced below many compact Fairlane even rivals some in gas economy. Has twice-a-year maintenance introduced by the Galaxy.

FULL-SIZE CLASS:

GALAXIE BY FORD

The class for families who want big car comfort, performance and prestige. Value leader is the Ford Galaxy—which has every essential feature of far costlier fine cars. With the optional Thunderbird 390 V-8 engine, a Galaxy will outperform America's most expensive luxury cars. Requires servicing only twice a year, or every 6,000 miles.

LUXURY CLASS:

FORD THUNDERBIRD

The top class—cars for people who want the very finest. First of the trim-size luxury cars, the 4-passenger Thunderbird is the most distinctive car in this class. Its styling set the trend for an entire generation of cars and now finds a new elegance in the Landau. And Thunderbird's performance is just this side of flight.

The 'Customer's Man'

By William A. Doyle
Q. My friends and I all use different brokerage houses. One friend receives all kinds of literature from his brokerage house. In addition, the customers' man who handles his account periodically contacts this man, advises him about his stocks and, now and then, advises the purchase or sale of other securities.

He is strictly an order-taker. How far should a customers' man go in helping his clients, in return for the commissions he receives?
A. It varies. This may seem to be in line with the late W. C. Field's "evasive answer." But it's true. You've learned that, by checking you experience with your friends.

There is no rule on this. The amount of assistance provided to clients varies from one brokerage of certain stocks. Some brokerage firms operate on the theory that they are in business strictly to execute buy and sell orders. Other brokerage firms put out all kinds of "brokerage letters" and other literature and provide various services.

This thing also varies from one customers' man to another, in the same brokerage house. Some keep in almost constant contact with their clients. Others never pick up the phone, unless it rings.

You must realize that, while many investors want and need a lot of assistance from their customers' men, many other investors do not. Each investor should talk this over with his customers' man. If the investor isn't getting the kind of service he wants, he can always take his business elsewhere.

Q. I own 50 shares of Chase Manhattan Bank stock. The dividends on this stock are less than the interest paid on savings accounts in the same bank. Would I not be smart to sell the stock and put my money in the savings account?

A. That depends on what you are looking for. Chase Manhattan Bank recently raised the interest rate paid on savings accounts, from 3 to 3.5 percent, effective Jan. 1.

The money you have in a savings account of a commercial bank, such as Chase Manhattan, makes you a creditor of the bank. You know the money will be safe and you'll collect the interest. Everybody should have a savings or bank account of some kind. It's a necessity for sound financial planning.

The money you have in stock is something else. You shouldn't own stock, unless you have a savings cushion (and insurance) behind you.

As a stockholder, you are not a creditor of the bank. You are one of the owners. And you have taken on the risks that go with ownership of any stock. However, ownership of Chase Manhattan stock has been very rewarding.

The dividend on this stock is now at the rate of $2.50 a year—62½ cents every three months. In addition, a four percent stock dividend was paid early in 1961 and a two percent stock dividend was paid in 1960.

The stock has a current market price of about $90 a share. So, the total dividend results in a current yield of less than 2.8 percent.

But this and other good bank stocks have done very well over the years. In 1951, you could have bought Chase Manhattan stock for about $30 a share. Since then, it has risen in market price and the dividend has been increased a number of times.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Dear Abby

Fly Straight, Honey!

Dear Abby: I am not a silly kid. I am 22 and work in an insurance office. I've been dating an Air Force officer for three months and I fell for him right off the bat. He says he loves me and wants to marry me "some day" but I shouldn't talk marriage to him because tomorrow he may die. In the meantime he sees nothing wrong with two adults living for today. My father told me not to take the guy seriously because HE was in the service and HE worked every time. Should I believe my father or this fellow?

The problem is, she never puts more than one 7-cent airmail stamp on the envelope. It is both expensive and irritating to pay the postage for it on this end, it will be returned to her and she'll know we refused it. How can we either discourage such frequent letters or get her to use more stamps?

My sister, who is 23, became engaged shortly afterward and SHE wanted a Christmas wedding in 1961. Because my father can't afford two weddings the same month, and she is older, I agreed to postpone MY wedding until May of 1962.

Now my sister has become "disengaged" to the first man and plans to marry someone else in April of 1962. That means that I can't be married in May. Do you think this is fair?

Ex - Stroudsburg Resident Directs Chorus On Tour

UNDER THE direction of Lorraine Merwin Miller, the Combined Mixed Chorus of the Jersey Central and New Jersey Power and Light Company has just returned from a 10-day concert tour of Greenland where they sang ten concerts, and put on radio and television shows for 25,000 servicemen at three Air Force Bases — Goosebay, Labrador; Sondrestrom and Thule in Greenland.

The invitation from the United States Air Force was extended to the Chorus as a result of its past performances at McGuire Air Force Base from where they flew for Greenland. The only other group of comparable size ever to have been invited to Greenland was the "Bob Hope Show."

Mrs. Miller, a Stroudsburg native, is a graduate of Stroudsburg High School, Philadelphia Conservatory of Music and New York University, and was Supervisor of Music in the Stroudsburg Public Schools and directed the Presbyterian Church Choir here.

She also was music director of the Summer Theatre at "The Inn" at Buck Hill Falls. Her father was the late Robert Merwin, also a musician. Her husband is John H. Miller, former district superintendent of Metropolitan Edison Company here.

After leaving Stroudsburg, she directed the Presbyterian Church Choir in Hackettstown for ten years before moving to Dover. She organized and directed the Dover Community Chorus for nine years and has directed the Power and Light Chorus since it was organized in 1957.

Since that time the Chorus, whose services are free of charge to all organizations, has sung for more than 60,000 persons traveling throughout the state of New Jersey for many Service Clubs, Institutions, State and National Conventions and just prior to the Greenland Tour made its second annual appearance at the Electrical Living Show at the New York Coliseum where they spent a week singing ten concerts. The group stayed at the Park Sheraton Hotel in New York.

Accompanist for the chorus is Jack MacDonough, also a Stroudsburg native.

PIAA Football Coaches Blame Equipment For Injury Increase

ESSC Trowned By Phila. Textile

PHILADELPHIA — Herb Magee and Junius Johnson teamed for 60 points Thursday, as Philadelphia Textile Institute walloped East Stroudsburg State College 94-73.

It was the second straight loss for the winless Warriors, who were whipped by Scranton University Tuesday.

Magee, the leading scorer in the Philadelphia area last year, scored 33 points on 11 field goals and 11 free throws. Most of Magee's fielders came on long jump shots.

Johnson, a sophomore jumping jack had 27 points, coming on eight field goals and 11 foul shots. Johnson also controlled both backboards.

Murphy High

John Murphy topped the East Stroudsburg scorers with 17 points. It was the highest point production in two years for the junior from Forty Fort. Murphy bagged eight field goals and a lone foul shot.

Senior forward Russell Hopewell was next in line with 16 points. Hopewell, who scored 21 points against Scranton, had six field goals and connected on four or five foul attempts.

Will Pfeiffer was the only other Warrior to hit for double figures. Pfeiffer had 13.

Scott Weaver managed only one point and John Polonchak, another starter had six. Sonny Giumento scored eight.

East Stroudsburg, which whipped the Philadelphia team 108-93 last year never led in the contest. The Warriors were hurt at the foul line, connecting on only 19 of 34 chances. Textile made good on 26 of 37 foul line attempts.

It was 51-33 at halftime but in the second half the Warriors outscored Textile 46-43.

The Warriors were beaten 83-61 in the junior varsity game, the second straight double-header loss.

Pro Grid Title Game Dec. 31

NEW YORK (AP)—The championship game of the National Football League will start at 1 p.m., CST, on Sunday, Dec. 31, in the Green Bay, Wis., stadium, Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Thursday.

The Packers already have clinched the Western Division title and if a playoff is needed to determine the Eastern champion, the title game will be played at Green Bay on Sunday, Jan. 7, also starting at 1 p.m.

Rozelle said tickets would cost $10. The game will be televised nationally with only the Green Bay area blacked out.

Eagles Sign First Choice

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles signed their No. 1 draft choice, lineman Pete Case of the University of Georgia, Thursday.

Actually, Case was taken in the second round of Monday's National Football League draft by the champion Eagles, who traded their first round turn in a prior deal.

Case, 6-foot-3 and 235 pounds is an offensive tackle, defensive guard or corner linebacker.

Wind Tunnel Tests Find Rabbit Ball

CHICAGO (AP) — Scientific batting and wind-tunnel tests at the Armour Research Foundation have determined that there was a 'rabbit' in the 1961 baseball, editors of Popular Mechanics Magazine said today.

The magazine editors, sponsors of the tests, said that baseballs used during the 1961 season, in which Roger Maris, Yankee outfielder, hit a record sixty-one home runs, were much 'livelier' than those used during the Babe Ruth era.

"We set out with open minds to find out if there were differences in the ball," said Joseph R. Buell Jr., publisher of the magazine. "We learned that there are differences."

Wind-tunnel tests indicated differences in drag would give an advantage to the new balls enough to lift a 350-foot fly to a 385-foot home run. The old balls had 10 to 15 percent.

More Bounce

Impact tests during the four-month study showed that the new balls had more bounce at lower bat speeds.

An electronically controlled batting machine was designed to duplicate the swings of both light and heavy hitters.

Other tests included chemical and physical analyses of the construction of the balls.

Twelve new balls from the Chicago White Sox 1961 supply and ten balls manufactured from 1926 to 1937 were used in the studies.

The chemical tests showed that while an attempt was made to keep the ball consistent through the years, there have been changes in the yarns, rubber and cork core materials and manufacturing processes.

Older balls had small seams and tighter, flatter stitching, making them smoother than the 1961 balls.

Poll Shows Helmet, Guard Are Most Serious Problems

T HARRISBURG (AP) — Present day football equipment is considered a major safety problem by Pennsylvania high school football coaches, a survey disclosed Thursday.

The poll was made by the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association (PIAA), the governing body of public high school sports in the state outside Philadelphia.

Commented Executive Director Mark Funk:

"I think the most important suggestions for improving equipment are, first, that helmets

ESSC Whips Lincoln In Mat Opener

OXFORD — East Stroudsburg State College made coach Clyde Whitman's wrestling debut a successful one Thursday, whipping Lincoln University 18-12.

Each team won four bouts but the Warriors had two pins and a default, while Lincoln won all its matches on points.

The Warriors won the bout when heavyweight John Skiptunas won by default over LeRoy Simpson in 2:30 of the first round.

Skiptunas was leading 2-0 when Simpson had to quit because of an injury. Before the heavyweight bout, the Warriors held a 13-12 lead.

The other East Stroudsburg winners were George Kayal, Tom Gleason and Dick Bell.

Opens Scoring

Kayal opened the scoring for the Warriors by pinning Henry Galtbreith in 1:58 of the first period in their 123-pound battle. Kayal used a cradle hold for the pin.

Wrestling in the 130 pound class, Gleason scored a 10-2 win over Tom Upperman.

Trailing 8-0, Lincoln won the next three matches, to go ahead 9-8. Edgar Addison decided 9-8 O'Connor 8-1 in the 137 pound go. Tom Stancil took an 8-3 win from Bob Walters and Bill Reese edged Mel Williams 5-2. Reese is a former Pennsylvania high school champion.

Back In Front

Freshman Dick Bell put East Stroudsburg back into the lead when he needed only 55 seconds to pin John Francis with an arm bar and half nelson in the 167 pound contest.

In the 177 pound match, Lincoln's Ken Washington decided Joe Mucka, to set-up the heavyweight finish.

The Warriors will hold an open scrimmage with Moravian Saturday at 1:30 at Normal Hall.

Results

123-Kayal (ESSC) pinned Galtbreith 1:58 of 1st pd. with cradle.

130-Gleason (ESSC) dec. Upperman, 10-2.

137-E. Addison (L) dec. O'Connor 8-1.

147-Stancil (L) dec. Walters 8-3.

157-Reese (L) dec. Williams 5-2.

167-Bell (ESSC) pinned Francis 55 sec. 1st pd. arm bar, half nelson.

177-Washington (L) dec. Mucka 9-0.

HWT-Skiptunas (ESSC) won by default over Simpson 2:30 1st pd. (injury).

Special Meeting For Varsity 'S'

THE Varsity "S" Club will meet Saturday at 9 a. m. in the equipment room at Gordon Giffels Field.

Players in the club's junior football league must turn in their equipment at that time. Coaches of the league are asked to be present.

The club will report on its special project during the meeting.

should be made of a more resilient material.

"Second, the face guards should be redesigned, perhaps shortened and placed close to the face.

Release Strap

"Third, the chin strap should be devised to release at determined pressures.

"Fourth, the back of the helmet should contain sponge rubber padding and allow for a yielding area."

Funk added that there are some other factors besides equipment needing attention. He named better physical condition, improvement of coaching techniques and stricter enforcement of rules about grabbing face masks, the use of the forearm to the face and head, piling on and tackling out of bounds.

Under the category of items considered a major problem, most of the coaches checked grasping the face mask of an opponent. It was cited by 215 coaches. Twenty-nine said they did not consider it a major problem.

Checked by 164 coaches was "face mask contributing to injury of wearer."

"Use of hands during offensive blocking" was cited by 125 coaches.

Soft Covering

Asked about the need for soft covering on pads, 217 coaches and 25 officials checked "yes," while 149 coaches and 50 officials said "no." The officials were not asked to vote on the questions about equipment.

There was one fatality in Pennsylvania scholastic football this year and several in high school and college around the nation.

Funk said he believed the increasing opposition among Pennsylvania high school coaches to the face protector is due to the increased number of fatalities.

"Let us keep in mind, however," he said, "that we used the same type of equipment for the past number of years and we have had a range of fatalities from the lowest in history to the highest."

Liston Says He's In Dark

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sonny Liston said Thursday he doesn't know what obstacles stand between himself and a shot at Floyd Patterson's heavyweight title.

Cus D'Amato, manager of Patterson, said earlier this week Liston knew what obstacles had to be removed before he got a title fight.

"I don't know what he means," said the No. 1 ranked challenger for Patterson's crown, "I guess I'll have to ask him."

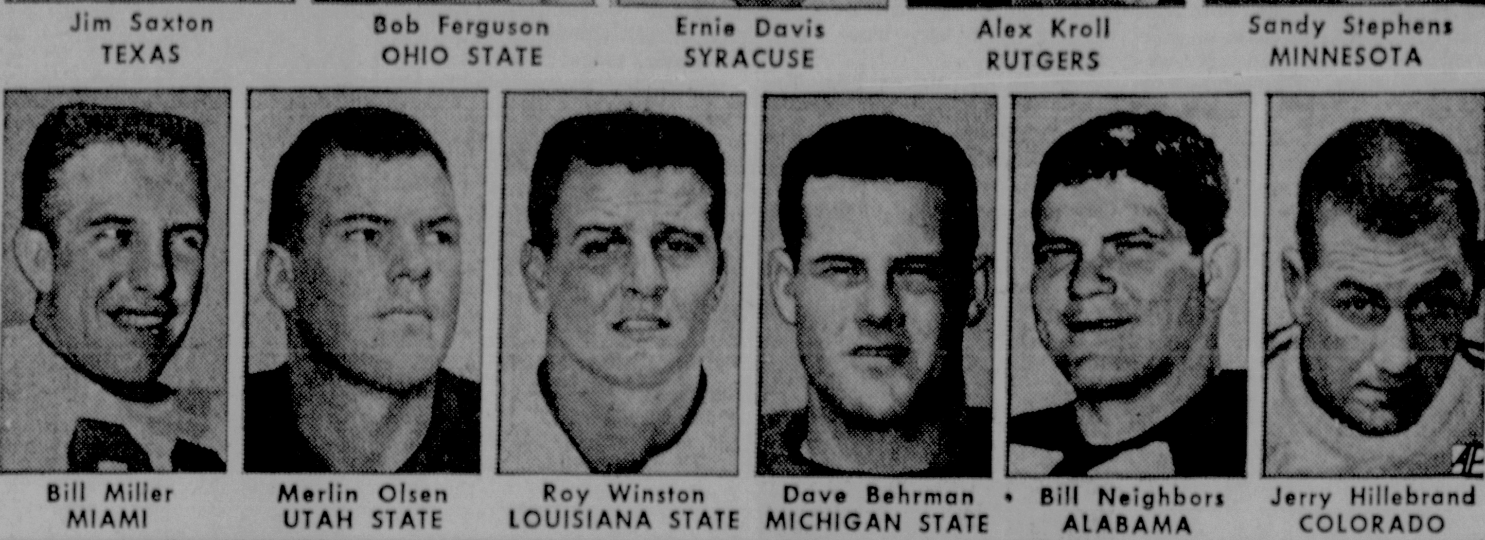

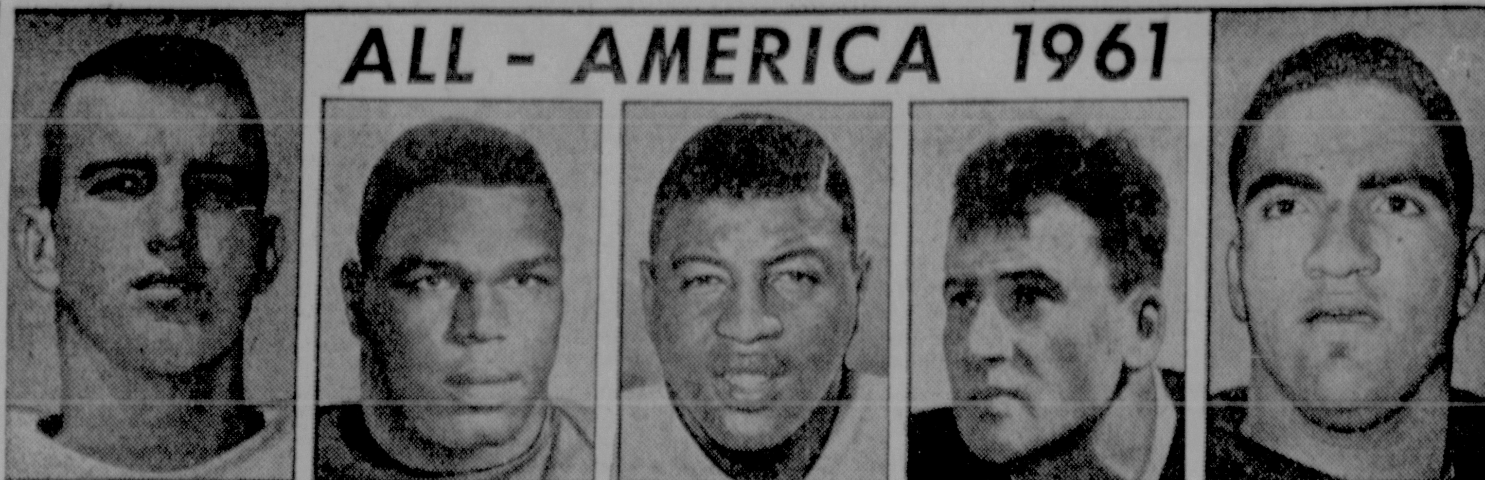

Liston said D'Amato ought to hold a conference and "tell me what these obstacles are. He ought to tell everybody."

D'Amato insisted Monday after Patterson knocked out Tom McNeeley in the fourth round of a title fight at Toronto, Canada, that he told Liston face-to-face what the obstacles were.

"Not me," said Liston.

The Liston-D'Amato disagreement was part of a series of contradictions involving the Philadelphia heavyweight. The fighter denies a report he is not getting along with his manager, George Katz. The manager says relations between the two are cool.

Asked about a report Katz was one of the obstacles D'Amato referred to, Liston replied: "If George Katz is the obstacle, I don't know who I can get to be my manager."

THE ALL-AMERICA TEAM FOR 1961 — Here are the members of the 1961 Associated Press All-America football team. Ends are Bill Miller, Miami, and Jerry Hillebrand, Colorado. The tackles are Merlin Olsen, Utah State, and Bill Neighbors, Alabama. The guards: Roy Winston, Louisiana State, and Dave Behrman, Michigan State. Center is Alex Kroll of Rutgers. Line Averages 232 Pounds

Huge Linemen, Power Backs Head All-America Grid 11

NEW YORK (AP)—A giant line averaging 232½ pounds to the man and one of the most brilliant backfields of recent years feature the 1961 Associated Press All-America football team announced Thursday.

In the backfield are Sandy Stephens, Minnesota; Ernie Davis, Syracuse; James Saxton, Texas; and Bob Ferguson, Ohio State.

Merlin Olsen of Utah State at 265, playing tackle, is the biggest member of the forward wall that includes Jerry Hillebrand, Colorado, and Bill Miller, Miami of Florida, ends; Bill Neighbors, Alabama, tackle; Roy Winston, Louisiana State and Dave Behrman, Michigan State, guards, and Alex Kroll, Rutgers, center.

The team was chosen on the recommendations of 49 sports writers and sportscares representing the eight NCAA districts on a proportionate basis, taking into account the complete season's performances.

Top Students

At least two of the first team are outstanding students — Kroll, a Phi Beta Kappa candidate who led Rutgers to its first unbeaten season since 1869, and Olsen, an honor student in business administration.

The first team backfield has everything—power, finesse, passing ability and poise.

The power comes from Ferguson and Davis.

Ferguson, meeting the toughest kind of competition in the Big Ten, made 938 yards in 202 carries for a 4.6 average, and scored 11 touchdowns.

Davis, first Negro ever to win the Heisman Trophy, broke the redoubtable Jimmy Brown's career record for total offense at Syracuse with 3,414 yards as against 3,225 for Brown and scored 220 points in three years to Brown's 187.

Saxton, who runs like a waterbug in spectacular spurts, made 846 yards in 107 carries.

Stephens gets most of the credit for sending Minnesota to the Rose Bowl. His big day was in Minnesota's 23-0 victory over Michigan when he set a school record for offense with 304 yards, including a 63-yard touchdown run, and a 46-yard touchdown pass.

Small Man

The small man on the forward wall is Miller — 192 pounds and 6-2. He makes up in agility and drive for what he lacks in power.

Hillebrand at the other end was a superb defender and key kicker for Colorado entirely aside from catching 17 passes for 282 yards. He scored 49 points on four touchdowns, three field goals, 14 PATs, and one pass conversion.

Neighbors was the key man in Alabama's defense, the tightest in the nation, which allowed only 2.2 points per game and a scant average 55 yards in rushing.

SECOND TEAM:

E—Garry Collins, Maryland; E—Pat Richter, Wisconsin; T—Ed Blaine, Missouri; T—Steve Barnett, Oregon; G—Mike Ingram, Ohio State; G—Dave Watson, Georgia Tech; C — Ron Hull, UCLA; B—Roman Gabriel, North Carolina State; B—Pat Trammell, Alabama; B—Lance Allworth, Arkansas; B — Billy Ray Adams, Mississippi.

THIRD TEAM:

E—Greg Mather, Navy; E — Hugh Campbell, Washington State; T—Art Gregory, Duke; T —Bob Bell, Minnesota; G—Stan Sczurek, Purdue; G—Larry Vignali, Pitt; C—Larry Onesti, Northwestern; B—Eddie Wilson, Arizona; B—John Hadl, Kansas; B—Benny McRae, Michigan; B — Dave Hoppmann, Iowa State.

Honorable mention:

Ends — Bob Mittinger, Penn State; Bob Boyd, Harvard; Tackles — Dale Kuhns, Army; Bob Asack, Columbia; Jim Smith, Penn State.

Guards — Rich Ross, Villanova; Mike Casp, Army.

Centers — Jay Huffman, Penn State.

Backs — Matt Syzkowny, Iowa; Bill Minsey, Minnesota; Al Rushatz, Army; Galen Hall, Penn State; Fred Cox, Pitt; Earl Stoudt, Richmond.

PRESENTING THE NEW SIZE DODGE DART! SIZED RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE OF THE BIG AND LITTLE

The new size Dodge Dart is two feet shorter than America's longest car and two feet longer than America's shortest car. It's right in the middle. You don't have to give up inside room and comfort to get maneuverability, or economy to get performance.

For a fact, this is one of the quickest cars going. You can feel the difference instantly. It's got the most powerful standard six in the business. Most powerful standard V8 of any car anywhere near its price. And inside there's plenty of comfort and luxury. Chair-high seats, thickly cushioned. In the Dart 440 — a fold-down center armrest in front. Also, color-keyed carpeting that runs sill-to-sill; all vinyl saddle grained upholstery, even on door panels that mold right up to the windows.

And how about this? The body is rustproofed. The brakes adjust themselves. You go 32,000 miles between grease jobs. You get traditional Dodge dependability all the way.

Drive the new size Dodge Dart. SIZED RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE OF THE BIG AND LITTLE. THE NEW SIZE DODGE DART

High School Chatter

Stroud Union

Editor's Note: This interview was obtained when 40 students from Stroud Union High School made a visit to the United Nations in New York City.

By CAROL ANN SOBINSKY

"Education is not compulsory in Malaysia as it is in the United States," said A. Hamid Pawanchee, second secretary, Permanent Mission of the Federation of Malaysia to the United Nations, during a recent interview with this high school reporter.

The responsibility of educating Malaysian children rests with the parent. He may or may not choose to provide an education for his child.

When the Federation of Malaysia became an independent member of the British Commonwealth in 1956, the educational policy was reoriented to suit the country. Two main types of public schools, national and English schools, now exist. A child attending a national school will be taught in the national language, Malay. In an English school, the subjects are taught in the official language, English.

First through sixth grades are classified as primary grades. Secondary schools cover the seventh through ninth grades. A Malaysian student of 17 or 18 wishing to continue his education in a university must first prepare by completing "post-school work" in the public schools. In Malaysia there are no scholastic divisions of academic, general, or commercial as we have in America.

After spending two years earning a post-school certificate, the Malaysian student may apply for admission to the University. The cost per student is approximately $700 a year in American currency. The government provides scholarships for worthy students.

Since 1957 the Federation of Malaysia has conducted a widespread adult education campaign. Adults are taught how to read, write, and speak correctly.

Five thousand Malaysian students are being educated in foreign countries. Upon completion of their studies, these students will return to Malaysia and help to educate more of the population.

The government of Malaysia is working hard to combat illiteracy in the country and to build up the educational system.

EACH YEAR on Dec. 5, The Betty Crocker Search for American Homemaker of Tomorrow test is given to senior girls from each state of the nation.

The test is taken voluntarily by the girls, they do not have to be taking the home making course.

It is a general test on the attitudes of the girls on home making. An award for the highest scoring girl will be given in our school and she will compete with girls from other schools on a nationwide basis.

The following girls have taken the test from our high school:

East Stroudsburg Man Set To Appear At Liberty Bowl

FRED G. Hershey, son of Mrs. Fred W. Hershey of East Stroudsburg, is a member of the Syracuse University Marching Band and will be appearing with the Band in Philadelphia in the Liberty Bowl according to Donald E. Schmaus, Director of the University Marching Band.

Membership in the Syracuse University Marching Band is one of the highest musical honors that can come to an instrumentalist on the Syracuse Campus. Hershey plays trumpet in the band.

The Syracuse Band Director Schmaus attributes his acceptance into the Syracuse Band in large part to the fine training he received while attending E. Stroudsburg High School in East Stroudsburg, Pa.

The Syracuse University Marching Band, rated one of the outstanding Marching Bands in the country, will present colorful pregame and half-time entertainment when Syracuse meets Miami in the 3rd Annual Liberty Bowl Game on Dec. 16.

A highlight of the band's performance will be Miss Judy Delp, Syracuse's nationally famous baton twirling champion.

The game will be carried nationally on television.

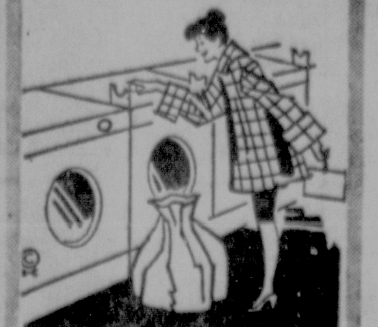

Since adult penguins usually outnumber the chicks, there is spirited competition to adopt orphans and strays. Baby penguins are often killed in the fray.

BUSTER KEATON will do some of his silent movie routines when he stars on the Dec. 15 "Twilight Zone" episode as a janitor of the 1890s who is transported by a time machine to 1962 and doesn't like what he finds. . . . Comic Victor Borge is mulling over a regular series for next season. . . . Comedian Mel Blanc, seriously injured in an automobile accident last January, returns to "The Jack Benny Show" on Dec. 24.

Cliff (Charley Weaver) Arquette is featured on the "Loretta Young Show" at 2:30 this afternoon on ch. 3 and in "Time and Yuletide," when Miss Young portrays a supervisor who makes up her mind that it will be a Merry Christmas for young and old at the Custer County Hospital. . . . Jim Davis and Lang Jeffries are baffled by a series of explosions when they portray Wes and Skip on "Rescue 8" at 6:30 p.m. on ch. 7.

Phyllis Thaxter guests with stars Eric Fleming, Clint Eastwood and Sheb Wooley on the "Rawhide" western series at 7:30 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10, when no one believes Nolan's story about coming upon some Indians dressed up in strange costumes, but then Pauline Wakefield stumbles into camp and tells of an Indian attack on her theatrical wagon. . . . Don Ameche introduces the Circus Williams from Arnhem, Holland, on "International Showtime" at 7:30 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4.

Martin Milner and George Maharis star on "Route 66" at 8:30 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10, when Ted goes down a spooked kid intended for someone else and, as a consequence, leaves a path of destruction across the city of Philadelphia. . . . Inger Stevens portrays a nightclub performer who threatens suicide to escape the memory of her own murder trial when she guests with star Robert Taylor on "The Detectives" at 7:30 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1961

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Take a well defined non-partisan viewpoint. You can come through with flying colors. Show some altruism where others are not. Don't notch returns. Don't hedge, be direct.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—You could be imposed upon in matters you handle well yourself. Be firm, but diplomatic in being your better judgment. Review facts before decisions in business, finances.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Mercury rays do not register heavily. Be circumspect. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left or right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Very auspicious indications. Your planet, Moon, action must be screened thoroughly to weed out the non-essentials. Aim to keep pace with, and even pass, current competition.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Good prospects for sound, financial and other matters. Pretty much on your own today but there is help for the asking. Just be certain you are asking right sources. Have confidence in self.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Not advice. Gemini. Some uncertainties could cause confusion, disillusionment if you don't take things sensibly. Be thorough in all dealings; check for possible loopholes.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Desire is half the battle. It is now that you feel the right direction is another quarter. Finally, give it the proper impetus and pace and results will certainly be forthcoming.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)—May find to competition keen. All benefits, openings not readily discernible. Expect to stride forward with full knowledge that correctly applied effort brings home the prize.

November 24 to December 31 (Sagittarius)—Carrying out vital activities at the opportune time helps steady progress. Competitions handling of current issues important. Four into efforts proper ingredients for success.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—Partly successful day. Planets speak of not permitting work, new duties, exacting demands to cause you to feel fed down. You are capable, efficient; be yourself and achieve.

January 21 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Uranus tends toward the strictly prophetic. Lacking your keen sense of deduction and working at peak efficiency augurs for advancement. Change course to fit circumstances.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Neptune rays parallel Aquarius' now. Be strong in trust placed in you. Shy away from reckless acts which do not portray wishes and desires of the true Pisces.

You BORN TODAY are idealistic, roundly gifted; at time impulsive to point of hurting loved ones who are trying to help your career. Set aside one-sided ideology which is at variance with your true down-to-earth intentions. Curb overwork and any leanings toward boastfulness, over-assurance. You have so many versatile capabilities which exercised fully can bring you straight up the ladder of achievement to the top. Keep improving constantly and the ladder of achievement when a difficult situation arises that calls for immediate and unrehearsed action. One does not always have time to call on valued advice, but your intuition can assist notably. Birthdate of Horace Roman poet; Christina, Queen of Sweden; Wm. C. Durant, early auto magnate; Harve A. Aronson.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day in the form of a puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 4 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left or right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

TWENTY-NINE members and guests of Truth Class of the Portland Methodist Church attended the covered dish supper on Friday night in the church social rooms. A program followed the supper. Group singing of Christmas carols. A solo by Patky Ribble, also a tap dance number. Mrs. Frank Culver read the Christmas story from Matthew. Rev. Raymond Footstra, the pastor, gave the prayer. Miss Helen Footstra played several selections on the accordion. A gift exchange followed the program. Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Gardner and daughter, Debra Jean, of Windsor, N. Y., spent the weekend with Mr. Gardner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gardner, on Main Street.
